The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked and frequently entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing invertebrate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designated Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure.

THE ELEVATOR.

The Enterprise an Assured Success.

Messrs. Newkirk, Zimmerman and Lupe, the committee appointed by the Commercial club a solicitor subscriptions to the stock for a $20,000 elevator, began work Friday and in a short time secured about one-fourth of the amount. Only two out of the number called upon declined to take stock. They did not solicit yesterday as they were necessarily engaged with their private business, but they will resume work to-morrow and expect to complete the work in a few hours. A careful investigation of the business of an elevator and the amount one located here can control shows that the enterprise will be a paying one and will pay dividends large enough to make it an object for capitalists to invest in it. The need of an elevator here is well known to all business men—in fact the business of the city demands such an institution.

—Mr. R. P. Archer, of 207 Ohio street, one of the largest handlers of grain in the State outside of St. Louis, was seen at his place of business by a BAZOO reporter. He said:

"I understand that a committee from the Commercial club is now soliciting subscribers for stock in the elevator enterprise, and I am creditably informed that it is meeting with remarkable success."

What do you understand to be the plans of the company?

"I am not positively informed as to any particular organization but if the organization of the company was left to me I would say that we proceed to build on elevator of, say 49,000 bushel capacity with plenty of shelter, or warehouse, capacity for grain sacking and hay pressing and storage room; to meet the demand from whatever quarter it may come."

Do you think a 49,000 bushel elevator would meet the requirements of the trade at this place?

For several years it probably would. You must understand that Sedalia has never had any such facilities for handling grain, and that also, she has two large Flouring Mills to be kept in operation by the wheat products of surrounding country, which would to a great extent require the elevator to depend upon the receipts of corn, oats and hay for its maintenance.

Once that we are known as a grain market, we may be able to draw enough wheat and other grain to justify the building of an additional 49,000 bushel elevator.

Upon what market would you depend upon for the sale of the elevator receipts?

"That would depend entirely upon the demands of the various sections that are accessible to us, and you must not forget that we occupy a position as a distributing point and that our persimmons can be hauled down only by the longest pole."

Do I understand you to say that Sedalia can depend upon other markets than St. Louis and Chicago for the produce of this section?

That is the idea that I am trying to convey. Do you know that I am receiving, almost daily, letters from the south, southeast and west, asking me to price wheat, corn, oats, hay and frequently field seeds.

Why do you suggest a 49,000 bushel capacity for an elevator for Sedalia. Because one of 50,000 bushel capacity will, by a law enacted by the last legislature, be known as a public warehouse, and in my opinion it would be more profitable if conducted and run as a private warehouse which under the present law, must be under the capacity of 50,000 bushels.

But Mr. Archer, do you think that our produce can be shipped to the Southern markets you speak of at a profit in competition with St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago?

Most assuredly. The interstate law now law puts us on an equal footing in regard to freight charges with other markets of the same distance, and common sense tells us that there are but few distributing points for the grain products of the northwest nearer to the Southern markets than Sedalia. We only need the facilities here to fill the orders in a merchantable manner, and I know we can draw from that section enough to guarantee to Sedalia a good business in this line.

A Cherry Tree's Freak.

Mrs. Weller, of Camp Branch, brought to the BAZOO office this morning, a large twig of a cherry tree filled with blossoms and half grown cherries. She says the entire tree is like the twig, and presents not only a rare but beautiful sight. The tree bore fruit at the regular season this year, and was in a good way to bear a second crop when frost put a stop to such unusual proceedings.

The Circuit Court.

The following entries were made in the circuit court yesterday, after which the court had adjourned until 9 a. m. to-morrow.

Haynes, Gordon & Co., vs. Josiah Blocher; defendant files motion in arrest of judgement and for new trial. C. E. Lucas vs. Eliza A. Coe et al.; settled and dismissed.

In the case of George Heard vs. James E. Ritchey et al, the defendant filed a demurrer to the evidence presented by the plaintiff which was exhaustively argued by the attorneys. The court sustained the demurrer which had the effect of defeating the suit. The trial occupied several days and the case had become quite noted. The plaintiff's claim was about $10,000.

Another noted case was also disposed of yesterday entitled the Democratic Publishing company vs. L. G. Glesner. The facts showed that the old Democrat having reached a point when it was overwhelmed in debt, a number of the creditors undertook to reorganize the company by taking stock to the amount of the claims in a new company. Glesner was one of the creditors and he with the other creditors represented their purposes to certain capitalists, as an inducement to take stock in the new company. The other creditors did as they agreed but Glesner backed out and undertook to foreclose his claim which was in the shape of a mortgage or deed of trust on the material in the office. The company brought a suit to have Glesner joined and to compel him to take stock as he agreed. The court in rendering his opinion said that to permit Glesner to foreclose his claim in view of all of the facts would be to allow a fraud to be perpetrated upon those who had acted in good faith in the matter and he would therefore make the injunction perpetual, but did not see how he could force Glesner to take the stock.

A certificate of stock had been tendered to Glesner, but he stuck up his nose at it. The Democrat company said they did not want it, in fact it was like a yaller dog that nobody wanted to own. It was left on the clerk's hands.

The company pestered out last fall and really there is nothing but the bad smell left to law about. The men who composed the company are only seeking to make Glesner take his share or it.

Katie C. Powell vs. Charles H. Powell, divorce granted; $100 alimony awarded; $50 to be paid in October, and $50 in November.

In the partition suit of Frank Schrankler, et al., decree granted as prayed for and sale ordered at one-half cash and remainder to be paid in one year, at 8 per cent, secured by deed of trust.

James A. Mahan vs. J. R. Hanby, notes; motion for cost sustained and leave given until December 1st to deposit $25 and $50 in the equity suit between the same parties.

Henry Janeway et al. vs. J. L. Hazzlewood, note; motion to strike out answer denied and case on trial when court adjourned last night.

In two ejectment suits by the Home Building and Loan association, the plaintiff voluntarily withdrew the part of petition relating to notes, and is given permission to withdraw the same; de'dants granted until December 1st to file answer.

In partition suit by Mary A. Weare et al., report of sale by sheriff confirmed.

G. W. Gregg vs. Missouri Pacific railway, damages; motion for new trial overruled.

Cunningham Bros. vs. Frances McAlister, account; answer filed.

Sarah Bradley vs. Jacob Farmer; motion to amend petition by striking out the name of James Cook and to make the same read grammatically.

The Public Schools.

The public schools last week were a source of considerable pride and satisfaction to the patrons as well as teachers. Every department has settled down to hard work and not the slightest friction can be noticed anywhere. The attendance shows a greater per cent of the enrollment than ever before in the history of the city schools. All of the teachers were at their posts every day of the week and no sickness whatever is reported among the pupils. There is some sickness among the children of the city, but it appears to be among the class who didn't go to school. This class is larger than it ought to be but every reasonable effort is being made to reduce it by getting the delinquents inside the school room.

A fine blooded mare belonging to a Kentucky horse raiser was killed in a M. K. & T. yards here yesterday morning in a singular manner. It was in a Burden stock car with fourteen other horses and in some manner it got its front feet across the stall partition and in its struggles to get back it burst an artery and died in a few moments. The horse was a 3-year-old with a 2:25 record and was consigned to a point in Kansas.
